

Democratic Fight For Liberal Views Centers in South

Roosevelt's Frontal Attack on
Sen. Walter George Gives
Clear Definition of Chief
Executive's Intent

Long Struggle

President's Speech Foreshadows Fight Between Conservative, Liberal Elements

Washington, August 12 (AP).—President Roosevelt's frontal attack on the candidacy of Senator Walter George of Georgia made the south today the battleground for his fight to build up a liberal school of thought in the Democratic party.

In no other section of the country has the chief executive attempted to draw so clearly the line between what he considers to be progressive liberalism and the type of conservatism which he insists stands in the way of social and economic progress.

The action, taken by Mr. Roosevelt in his speech yesterday at Barnesville, Ga., foreshadows a long struggle between southern Democrats of the conservative type and those who fit the Roosevelt pattern. It is a contest which will involve not only the Georgia and South Carolina and other remaining Democratic primaries this year, but will extend into coming congressional sessions and the fight over party leadership in 1940.

By many persons here the Barnesville speech was considered the most important that Mr. Roosevelt made on the five weeks' journey which he brought to a close today.

Attack a Surprise

The vigor of his criticism of Senator George, whom he accused of being out of sympathy with administration objectives, surprised many politicians. Some of them had expected him merely to throw his support to Lawrence Camp, New Deal candidate for George's seat.

His speech, attacking former Governor Eugene Tamm, as well as George, displayed a fighting mood such as he had not shown elsewhere on his trip. The theme was reminiscent of his "fireside chat" in June, when he first called for a liberal-conservative alignment of major political parties.

Many persons here believe he may intervene directly in the Maryland Democratic primary in an effort to defeat Senator Millard Tydings by boosting the candidacy of Rep. David J. Lewis, a New Deal aspirant to replace Tydings. It is possible also that he may take a hand against Senator Loneragan in Connecticut.

On the other hand, Mr. Roosevelt did not utilize a train stop at Greenville, S. C., last night to criticize by name Senator E. D. Smith of South Carolina, who like George, Tydings and Loneragan opposed the court bill and various other administration measures. He limited his political remarks to a general appeal for election of congressmen who will cooperate with his program.

The President is scheduled to visit the south again late in September to speak at Chickamauga National Park near Chattanooga, Tenn. He will have an opportunity then to renew his argument that if the south is to solve its social and economic problems, it must elect liberals to office.

Can Run Own Affairs

Atlanta, Aug. 12 (AP).—Senator Walter F. George, renounced by President Roosevelt as a "dyed-in-the-wool" conservative, based renomination campaign plans today on the declaration "we have just begun to fight."

"The Democratic party is not a one-man party," he asserted, "but a party for the great rank and file of American men and women who love justice, liberty, equal rights for all and special privileges for none."

The Senate veteran told President Roosevelt "I accept the challenge" after the Chief Executive reaffirmed yesterday at Barnesville, Ga., that "I most assuredly would cast my ballot for Lawrence Camp," New Dealer.

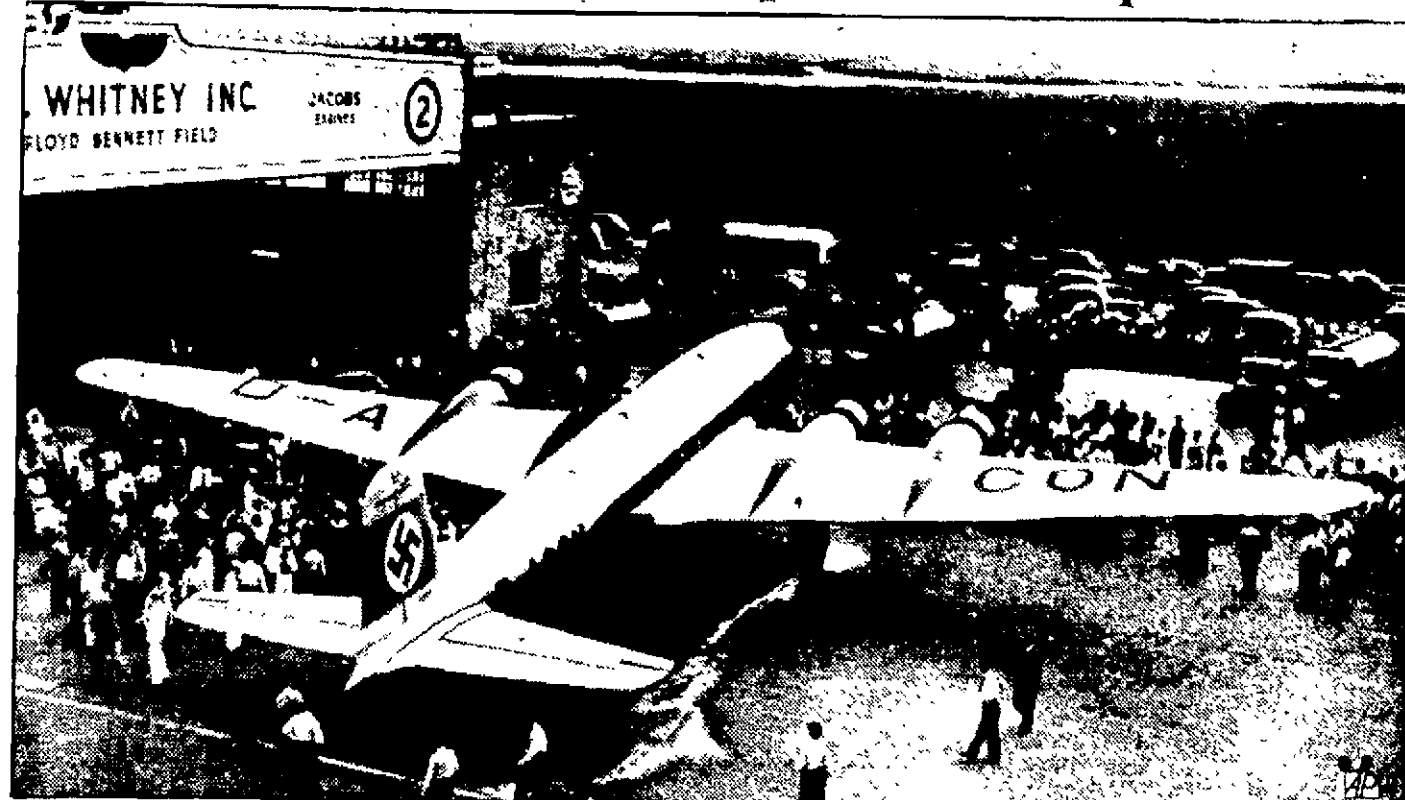

"God bless you Walter," the President replied. "Let's always be friends."

Senator George stood on an Atlanta hotel balcony last night and told a crowd which assembled to greet him "the events of today have cleared the last remaining doubt as to verdict of the people of Georgia September 14."

Sylvia Will Wed

London, August 12 (AP).—Notice that Sylvia Sidney, Hollywood screen star, will wed Luther Adler, New York actor, was filed today at the London register office. Both are now in England and presumably will wed here, but the date was not disclosed. Adler is playing the lead in Clifford Odets' "Golden Boy" at a London theatre. Miss Sidney is 28, Adler 35.

New York Gets First Glimpse of Ocean Spanner

Latest plane to span the ocean in this summer's trans-Atlantic "merry-go-round" is Germany's four-motored Brandenburg, shown August 11, immediately after landing at Floyd Bennett Field, N. Y. Here a crowd is gathered about the 19-ton, 24-passenger ship which carried a crew of four on the 3,942-mile trip from Berlin to New York. Official time for the non-stop hop was 24 hours, 54 minutes. A return flight was planned within two days.

Woman Injured At Lake Katrine In 2-Car Crash

Irma Vollmer of 4824 Judge street, Brooklyn, was injured this morning about 8 o'clock when her car left the road at the Lake Katrine junction with route 9-W and crashed into the machine of James L. Shults of Jersey City, which was parked in front of a garage next to Auchmuty's store and some 10 feet off the main highway.

The woman suffered an injury to her chest and a bruise on her leg and was treated by a physician. Her head went completely through the windshield of her car, but resulted in no serious injury.

She told Deputy Sheriff Ray Wines, who investigated the intersection, headed north, a car came out of the Lake Katrine station road and a truck on 9-W compelled her to swerve her car to the right and she apparently lost control.

The car skidded along the pavement for a distance of 54 feet, according to the officer, and then ran over 10 feet off the highway to strike the Shults car and also a pole along the road. Her body was thrown against the steering wheel with such force that the wheel was broken and the house service wires from the pole were pulled loose.

The front of the Vollmer car was wrecked and the rear of the Shults car was damaged badly.

Fight Epidemic

Philadelphia, Aug. 12 (AP).—Health authorities redoubled their efforts today to find the source of an outbreak of dysentery which has taken eight lives in a week at the home for the indigent at nearby Holmesburg. Four died yesterday. Two others were described as "on the danger list." Approximately 50 have been stricken. In a similar epidemic at the home last year 33 persons died.

Crispell Back to Sing Sing

Jesse Crispell, who was picked up August 5 by Deputy Sheriffs Vredenberg and Brown on a warrant charging violation of parole, and who has been held at the county jail, was this morning returned to Sing Sing prison. State Parole Officer Harris, who is substituting for Officer Locke while the latter is on vacation, took Crispell back to serve out the balance of his term.

New Fog-Piercing Radio Lights Announced Today

Lafayette, Ind., Aug. 12 (AP).—Radio lights, a new method of seeing through miles of the thickest fog or clouds, were announced today at Purdue University.

The lights are planned to enable a pilot to "see" the runway of a field miles away, and to land on that strip, no matter how completely the ground is obscured. They are under development for aeronautics by R. H. George and H. J. Helm, of the engineering experiment station.

The lights are short-wave transmitters. The plan is to set a row of them along each side of a runway. Each is a miniature radio station, sending out a signal along a path toward the incoming plane. In the airplane is a receiver able to determine the direction from which these radio waves are coming. Special equipment converts the signals into spots of light on a round glass screen on the instrument board.

Upon the screen the distant radio sending stations appear in the same relative positions as if they were lights on the landing field.

The pilot has the impression of looking out through a hole in his instrument board and seeing the lights on the field. The positions of the lights inform him whether he is approaching the runway head on, crossways or at an angle.

Springfield Man Awaits Grand Jury Action in Car Case

Howard Gillett, 23, of Springfield, Mass., charged with the theft of an auto owned by Dr. John Olivet of Prince street on July 21, was arraigned before Judge Matthew V. Cahill in police court this morning, when he waived examination and was held for the grand jury. Bail was fixed at $2,000 by Judge Cahill when Lieutenant Charles Phinney informed the court that Gillett had confessed to the theft of over 20 automobiles since 1930.

Gillett was arrested in Catskill last night and it is said he made a confession to the police authorities and stated that among the cars he had stolen was that of Dr. Olivet's of this city, which was later found abandoned in Cobleskill on July 23.

The Catskill police notified the Kingston department that they had picked up Gillett there and that he had confessed to stealing a car from Kingston in July.

Lieutenant Phinney and Officer Hess drove to Catskill and returned later in the morning with Gillett.

According to the police Gillett made a statement in which he is alleged to have confessed that his criminal career started in 1930 when he was employed in a florist shop in Springfield. One day he saw the proprietor's car standing outside the shop with the key in the switch. He said he helped himself to the car.

From then on he is said to have confessed to the theft of over 20 cars the last eight years.

Weather Causes Damage

Albany, N. Y., August 12 (AP).—Freak rain and wind storms in the last six months have caused more than $200,000 damage to electric power lines and equipment in this area, a utility executive said today. Otto Snyder, president of the New York Power and Light Company, said the storms had been more frequent and devastating since mid-winter than in any similar period in the company's history.

Rome Has Quake

Philip Elting Casts Dissenting Vote for Labor Proposal; Bouton and Hirschberg Also Object to Bill

Philip Elting of Kingston was among six dissenters in the voting as a labor proposal was adopted last night by the New York State Constitutional Convention, which appeared likely today to give approval to 50 proposed amendments, according to the Associated Press.

It is expected that the 50 proposed amendments are likely to emerge from the convention for submission to the November electorate as the 31st measure defining labor's Bill of Rights, obtained delegates' approval.

Only the labor proposal was considered at the session as a result of the small attendance. It was approved by a vote of 88 to 6. Others opposing the measure, included Arthur F. Bouton of Roxbury, Henry A. Hirschberg of Newburgh, Edgar J. Nathan, Jr., and Harold Riegelman of New York and Clarence R. Runals of Lewiston.

Originally, leaders predicted that less than a dozen proposals would be adopted by the convention.

Passage of labor's bill of rights, authorizing employees to bargain collectively, eliminated a session last night during which President Frederick E. Crane commented that absence of many delegates had made a "farce" out of the convention to revise the state's basic law. He suggested at one point "We close up and go home."

Before adopting the labor proposal, the convention also voted to submit to the people proposed amendments to:

Prohibit discrimination against any person because of "race, color, creed or religion."

Free cities from mandatory state legislation by prohibiting the legislature from passing any special statute relating to "property, affairs or government" of a municipality except at the request of the mayor or by two-thirds of a municipal governing body.

"Streamline" the finance provision, changing the time for submission of the executive budget to the legislature from January 15 to February 1 and reducing from 50 to 40 years the maximum period for which a state debt can be contracted.

Authorize legislators' traveling expenses to and from the legislature, instead of the present method of paying one dollar for every ten miles travelled.

Provide the governor shall appoint the state's adjutant general. Several efforts to amend the proposal were beaten down, including one to eliminate the introductory sentence: "Labor of human beings is not a commodity nor article of commerce and shall never be so considered or contracted."

The proposal also provides: "No laborer, workman or mechanic in the employ of a contractor or sub-contractor engaged in the performance of any public work shall be permitted to work more than eight hours in any day or more than five days in any week, except in cases of extraordinary emergency; nor shall he be paid less than the rate of wages prevailing in the same trade or occupation in the locality within the state where such public work is to be situated, erected or used."

"Employees shall have the right to organize and to bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing."

Theft Is Theory Held in Slaying Of V. F. Shelley

Colonial Beacon Oil Company Employee Found Murdered Two Miles North of Newburgh Thursday

Victor F. Shelley, traveling salesman for the Colonial Beacon Oil Company, who was found murdered and robbed in his parked car two miles north of Newburgh about 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon, had been a business visitor to Kingston but at the Kingston Oil Company plant, distributors of Colonial Beacon products, it was stated that he had not been closely connected with the local plant.

Shelley, a man of about 35, lived with his family at Port Dickinson, a suburb of Binghamton and had worked last at Cortland on Monday.

State Troopers from the Monroe barracks in Orange county were notified about 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon that a man apparently shot had been found in a parked car which stood a few feet off 9-W. Investigation showed that a .32 calibre bullet had penetrated his chest causing death. The left door of the car had been broken open and the window smashed. The car had been parked at the spot for several hours before the body was discovered.

Considerable Cash
Shelley is supposed to have had a considerable sum of money on his person but none was found in the pockets of the dead man.

Local State Troopers were notified of the crime but it was admitted that there was no clue as to the murderer. State Police linked the murder with some person who has attempted several hold-ups of occupants of parked cars.

Lieutenant Walter Kelly of the State Police characterized the death as a "clear case of murder." There was no gun nearby. Shelley's wallet was missing.

Apparently Shelley had stopped his car along the road to fix a faulty motor. Wires on two spark plugs had been disconnected. Police theorize that the killing took place after Shelley had stopped his car to remedy the motor trouble and that he may have been sleeping in the car when attacked, his car broken open and the fatal shot fired.

Revocations Take Drop

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP).—Revocations and suspensions of automobile registrations and operators' licenses totaled 18,146 for the first seven months of the year, a reduction of 690 over a similar period in 1937. State Motor Vehicle Commissioner Charles A. Harnett said today. At the same time, the commissioner reported a $2,036,270 loss in motor vehicle receipts in June as compared with the same month a year ago. The loss, however, was anticipated, he said, because of introduction of the three-year driving licenses last year.

2 Gunmen Hanged For Killing Baker

New York Gunmen in Kansas'
First Double Execution in
More Than 70 Years

Leavenworth, Kas., Aug. 12 (AP).—Robert Suhay and Glenn Applegate, New York gunmen convicted of murdering W. W. Baker, Federal Bureau of Investigation agent, were hanged at the Federal Penitentiary here early today in the first double execution in Kansas in more than 70 years.

Applegate went to his death with the same indifference that has characterized his stay in prison. Suhay gritted his teeth and was making an obvious effort to control himself as he mounted the 13 steps of the gallows.

Among the 27 witnesses were H. H. Baker, Yuma, Ariz., attorney, father of the slain FBI agent, and B. B. Baker, his 18-year-old son.

Guards entering the cell block found Applegate asleep.

He refused to converse with the prison chaplain with the assertion "you'll have to go a hell of a long way to visit with me."

After the ropes were adjusted, Applegate turned to Suhay and said: "Let's shake and go together." Suhay made no response.

Both the 45-year-old Applegate and Suhay, 26, refused to receive spiritual advisers.

Baker was slain April 16, 1937, when Suhay and Applegate shot their way out of a trap set in the Topeka post office by federal agents who sought them in connection with the robbery of a Katonah, N. Y., bank. Suhay was shot in the wrist.

Greenberg Is Held In Resort Thefts

Man Picked Up at Phoenixia
as Result of Complaints
Made by Allaben Guests

Complaint was received at the sheriff's office Thursday that several guests at Allaben Acres on the Broad Street Hollow road had been robbed of small sums of money. Deputy Sheriffs Clayton Vredenberg and Charles McCutcheon went to the scene and made an investigation and found that while many guests complained of losing money, the total amount was not great.

After making an investigation about the premises the local officers discovered that the property was just across the Ulster-Greene county line in Greene county and consequently this morning when Deputy Sheriff Herbert Segelken picked up Irving Greenberg at Phoenixia and charged him with being the man responsible for the thefts, Greenberg was turned over to the Greene county authorities.

Greenberg was formerly employed at Allaben Acres but left his employment last Sunday.

Japs Bomb Kwangsi

Canton, China, August 12 (AP).—Japanese warplanes penetrated Kwangsi province, in southern China, today and heavily bombed Wuchow, river port 120 miles west of Canton. The raiders, continuing the fulfillment of Tuesday's threat of ten consecutive days of attacks, concentrated on Wuchow University and military headquarters after two bombardments of North Canton and the Canton Railway. First reports failed to estimate casualties or damages, which were believed heavy. Twenty planes participated in the attacks.

'Mail Order' Electrician Has Plan for All-Weather Railway

Pittsburgh, Aug. 12 (AP).—A Pittsburgh WPA worker who studied electricity by mail, offered a plan today to take up where William H. Vanderbilt left off and build a high speed electric railway under the Allegheny Mountains between Pittsburgh and Harrisburg, Pa.

He is Roy Greene, whose project is in conflict with that of the state administration, which plans with the aid of federal funds to build a $400,000,000 all-weather "dream" highway over the route of the abandoned railroad's right of way.

Greene says he has no money, but has applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to carry out his ambitious project and a hearing has been set for August 22 on the application before C. S. Engineer J. S. Pritchard at Washington.

He proposes, if his application is granted, to form "some sort of corporation, probably a federal corporation," and has under consideration application for an RFC or PWA loan "for about $300,000,000."

The Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission, named to build the "dream" highway, will advertise for bids on the first section of the project as soon as details of its RFC-PWA financing plan involving the sale of debentures to secure the RFC loan are completed. Greene would dispose of the turnpike competition by scrapping that project.

Saved From Sea

After floating four hours on Sandy Hook in a life belt, Louis B. Richmond, (above) 75-year-old fisherman from Bedford, N. J., was picked up by the S. S. City of Birmingham. The boat in which Richmond and two companions set out was swamped by its heavy haul of fish. One of his friends was rescued by army and navy dredge; the other is missing.

'Jimmy' Roosevelt Angered by 'Lies,' Tells of His Income

New York, Aug. 12 (AP).—"Jimmy" Roosevelt threw the long-discussed matter of his income before the American public today and declared in inclusive terms that it was much smaller than a lot of people thought.

In an interview with Associated Editor Walter Davenport published Collier's magazine, the President's son and secretary flatly denied what Alva Johnston's intimation in a recent Saturday Evening Post article that he made from $250,000 to $2,000,000 a year in the insurance business and used political pressure on prospective clients.

Young Roosevelt produced income tax records showing that from 1933 to 1937, inclusive, his income ranged from $21,711 to $39,167 annually, totalling $172,975 for five years.

"Since I have been my father's secretary, since I have been in Washington," he said in the interview, "I have not solicited nor attempted to solicit—no, and I haven't accepted—a single dollar of insurance from anyone, any time, anywhere. Anything to the contrary is a miserable lie."

Resigns From Firm

When he went to Washington last year at a salary of $10,000, he said, he resigned from the Boston insurance firm of Roosevelt and Sargent but continued to receive dividends on business he had helped place.

Daring Japanese Air Raids in Central China Bring Many Deaths—Anti-Japanese Agi- tators Busy on Coast

Franco on Drive

Spanish Situation Finds Rebel
Troops Nearing Valuable
Loyalist Deposits

(By The Associated Press)
Daring Japanese air attacks caused heavy damage and casualties today in two areas deep in the heart of China.

Terrorism gripped Shanghai, Japanese and Russian armies observed an armed truce on the Siberian-Manchoukuo frontier and insurgents hammered government positions in western Spain.

Oil tanks believed to belong to the Standard Oil Company of New York, Texaco or Shell Oil companies were set afire in the teeming industrial tri-city section around Hankow, China's provisional capital, by Japanese air raids.

The bombings, called more destructive than any before in that area, struck properties on the outskirts of Hankow 100 times. In the fur, of the attacks ownership of the tanks could not be established immediately. Heavy casualties were feared.

Chinese said 50 Japanese bombers at noon dropped 200 incendiary bombs across the Yangtze river from Hankow. They said light bombers dived through curtains of Chinese anti-aircraft fire to within 1,000 feet of the ground to score accurately on the Wuchang terminal of the Hankow-Canton railroad, packed with freight cars and surrounded by warehouses.

In Kwangsi province, further south, Japanese warplanes heavily bombed Wuchow, a river port 120 miles west of Canton, continuing to fulfill Tuesday's threat of 10 consecutive days of attacks.

Dread in Shanghai
Shanghai awaited with dread the anniversary tomorrow of the outbreak of Chinese-Japanese fighting there.

Anti-Japanese agitators threw two bombs at a Japanese cotton mill in the international zone, another hand eluded United States Marine patrols and bombed a Japanese box factory and a third dynamited Japanese property in the British defense zone.

Authorities accused Japanese of "gravelly serious" activity to foment disorders. They charged Japanese army cars were used to distribute anti-Chinese literature and a Japanese plane scattered anti-Chinese pamphlets over the international settlement.

In Spain, insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco's forces on the western, Extremadura, front drove rapidly toward valuable government mercury mines. Only six squads of militiamen defended the line, fighting determinedly to hold back the offensive until reinforcements arrived.

With quick restored on the Siberian-Manchoukuo frontier by an armistice after the gravest of a long series in incidents, Tokyo newspapers reflected anxiety whether a final peace had been achieved by Soviet Russia and Japan in the far east.

The Daily Hoch commented that "there still remain fundamental differences." The agreement for cessation of hostilities created machinery for marking the disputed border but final settlement of the line was left to the future.

Ellenville P. O. Site 334

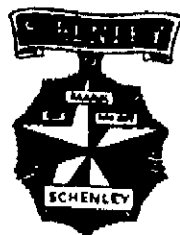

Feet Above Sea Level

Neelson B. Greller, construction engineer for the U. S. Treasury Department, with Engineer P. Edwin Clark of Ellenville, has been making a survey of soil conditions and other facts connected with the Eaton property, corner of Liberty street and Bogardus place, Ellenville, site of the proposed new post office building. The survey disclosed that the property has an elevation of 334 feet above sea level and that the soil condition is excellent for drainage and construction purposes.

Sees Better World

Houston, Tex., Aug. 12 (AP).—The tropic today seemed to be a pretty good place to James Wells, 23, who threatened yesterday to jump from a ledge on the 31st floor of a downtown building. Filled with hope after visiting his wife and three-day old son at a hospital, Wells said: "The world seems a whole lot better down here than it did up there." While thousands watched breathlessly from the street Wells argued for a half hour with two policemen.

Two Men Executed
Ossining, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP)—The last chapter in the slaying of Ralph Nischo in a Brooklyn waiter was enacted: holdup in 1936, won a reversal last night with the execution of from the Court of Appeals and Felix Cummings, 28, and George were re-convicted.

Kiwanis-Lions To Stage Battle On Ball Diamond

In the absence of President Paul Zucca, who is vacationing, Vice President Ed Huben presided at the weekly meeting of Kingston Kiwanis Thursday. Guests of the club were Dr. Raymond L. Gispell of Durham, N. C., an honorary member of the Kingston Club, and Henry Jansen and Frank Carr of Trenton, N. J., who were guests of Abram E. Jansen of New Paltz.

N. Jansen Fowler, in charge of the athletic portion of the program, announced that weather permitting the Kiwanis Club would meet the Lions Club at Forsyth Park next Monday evening at 6 o'clock for the much featured baseball battle which has been occupying the time of the club members for some time.

"Agricultural Meeting"
Mr. Huben reminded all Kiwanians that the next meeting would be "Agricultural Meeting" when each member was expected to bring along a farmer friend. Pratt Police announced that if any Kiwanian did not have a farmer friend one would be supplied by making application to Mr. Boice.

As delegates to the annual state convention to be held in Albany on September 11, 12 and 13, the club designated President Zucca, Vice-President Huben, Pratt Boice as delegates and George Matthews, George Reindel and William Byrne as alternates. Mr. Matthews of the convention committee reported application blanks on hand and hotel reservation blanks available. It was suggested that since the convention was close to Kingston as many members as possible attend the sessions.

In keeping with the thought of "agriculture" Al Kurdt, manager of the Ulster County Farm Bureau was introduced. Mr. Kurdt discussed the Ulster County Fair which will be held at Forsyth Park on August 24.

Fifty years ago he said the Ulster County Agricultural Society was incorporated and since then with the exception of a couple of years the fair has been held either in Ellenville or Kingston.

Since the fair came back to Kingston after the society sold the fair grounds in Ellenville for school purposes, two years have been missed but the society has been able to comply with the rules permitting retention of the charter so that state funds are available for premiums. Of the annual appropriation of $500,000 allocated to county and town fairs, Ulster county may be reimbursed for the amount of $5,000 expended for premiums. Last year over $4,000 was given in premiums.

In 1937 the Ulster county fair was more successful than in prior seasons and Mr. Kurdt predicted that this year's fair would exceed that of last year. There will be added attractions for entertainment this year and a "bicycle contest" with a valuable prize will be added for the younger people under 16.

The county "barnyard golf" championship meet will be held that day and the winner will go to the state fair to compete for state championship.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Faith
Washington, Ind. — Cholera killed several of his hogs. One of his children suffered a broken arm in a fall. Another was hurt in an automobile accident.

A cyclone tore the roof from his barn. Lightning damaged what was left. But Charles Faith still had some optimism left. Said he: "I guess I was lucky after all. The hay and other stuff in the barn was wet and wouldn't burn."

Philadelphia—Christian Mayer, 48-year-old (sproom) proprietor, has an invitation he doesn't intend to accept: "A request to hang himself."

It came by mail in a shoebox, along with 12 feet of rope and a noose.

Mayer thought someone was joking, but he notified police.

Self Restraint
Marysville, Kas.—Farmer Lee Barney hates to lose his temper. To keep from becoming angry, he quit work for the day after the power lift on his plow broke.

Two hornets stung him as he sought a similar piece from another plow.

A spark went down his shirt and burned his back as he watched the blacksmith weld the broken equipment.

He left the blacksmith shop and found a flat tire on his car.

Aged Diver
Wheaton, Ill.—The kids said "Gee" when Grandma Candrian took a dive from the four-foot board at the city swimming pool. They didn't know Mrs. Adolph Candrian had learned to swim and dive when she was 57 years old. She's 79 now.

It was children's day, but the manager approved Mrs. Candrian using the pool, thinking she wanted to wade around.

Spree of Boys

Is Ended Here

The adventure of two boys who left Rhinebeck yesterday with $280, was ended here last night. The boys appeared to be en route for a sojourn in New York.

The two, Gordon Pulver, 15, and Norman Pottenburgh, 15, both of Rhinebeck, were taken in temporary custody by Officer Murphy who found they still had $155.35 of the money, when he encountered them at a local bus terminal.

During their brief stay in Kingston they had evidently spent over a $100 and were both outfitted in new clothes when picked up by the officer.

The boys said they lived in Rhinebeck and gave their home address and a message was sent over the teletype which resulted in Mrs. Eggleston, a sister of the Pulver boy, calling at police headquarters early this morning.

They returned home in her custody.

The money the Pulver boy had with him was said to be a part of a paid-up life insurance.

When picked up by Officer Murphy the boys were waiting the arrival of a bus for New York city, they said.

'Man From Cairo'
Is Decided Hit

Woodstock, Aug. 12.—Robert Elwyn's Playhouse scored what many hailed as the outstanding success of the season in their presentation last evening of the play, "The Man From Cairo," which will continue through Sunday night.

Audience reaction was clearly indicative of the fact that the play was the most convincing of any presented at the playhouse since its opening this season and many thought the work of the entire cast was better than in any other performance at the local theatre.

The play marked the first appearance in Woodstock this year of Jean Bellows, daughter of the late George Bellows, and a hometown girl, who has made good on Broadway. Her portrayal of Leni, who carried the love interest in the play, was well handled and her many friends in the audience had reason to be proud of her work.

Frank Rothe did nobly as Istvan upon whose shoulders rested the plot and he was excellently supported by Marion E. Stittler, his staid mate, Henriette. Betty Macdonald most effectively supplied the major comedy interest.

The play deals with the problem of escape of a man, whose life had been too dull and regulated. His mild ventures as a man of the world to break the monotony of his home life and the daily routine of his work as a government clerk are unfolded in the drama and the play begins on one of his nights out. His keen interest in the people he meets results in his assuming the role of cupid and although complications develop, the ending is logically pleasing.

Peonies Good for Profusion of Bloom

(By The Master Gardener)

The gardener who through some circumstance — purchase, gift or mere chance — has one clump of peonies in his plantings will soon enlarge his holdings. For the peony, like the dahlia, is a flower that "grows on you" and many are the peony enthusiasts. And no wonder, for the peony does not require division for many, many years; it is not subject to many diseases, and with reasonable care, bloom is almost certain; as a cut flower, the peony has extremely good keeping qualities; and after bloom is over, the foliage continues to be decidedly ornamental. Where is the gardener who wouldn't want a flower with all of these qualifications in his garden?

So get out your catalog and get your order in now for September planting, for fall is the time to plant peonies; plantings can be made as late as October and on into early November. The ground has been prepared in advance, although the later plantings will not make as strong growth the following spring as will the September plantings.

Plant where they will receive full sunlight, and where the soil will not be impoverished by roots of trees and large shrubs. Thorough drainage must be provided. Peonies will not do well in wet or soggy soil. Heavy soil will produce the best blooms, but sandy soil will give good results if well drained and if the peonies are well supplied with water during the blooming season and dry periods.

Begin preparing the soil long before you plant the plants. To a depth of 18 inches, then work the soil, level it off, and allow to settle until the roots arrive.

When holes are made for planting the roots in the previously prepared bed, mix one teaspoonful of complete, balanced plant food, with the soil in the bottom of the hole, cover with about two inches of soil, and then plant the roots.

While the soil should be prepared to a considerable depth, the plant itself should be so set that the little pink and white buds from which next year's growth is to develop are only two to three inches below the surface of the soil. In heavy soil they should not be deeper than 2 inches, but in sandy soil, it is permissible to plant so the eyes are three inches below the surface. Too deep planting is a common cause of failure to bloom.

Although the peony is extremely hardy, for the first year it is best to apply a light mulch or heap of soil over the crown, this heap of earth to be leveled in the spring. When this mound is leveled off in spring and the initial cultivation given, apply complete, balanced plant food at the rate of one rounded tablespoonful per square foot of space surrounding the plant, being careful not to get any plant food on the sprouts.

After the first year, no mulch of any kind will be needed. Do not expect too much from plants in the way of bloom the first season, as they must become established before they will give full bloom. In fact pinching all buds the first year will give a better developed plant later.

GARDEN HINTS

Treating Dahlia Pests
August is the time when many dahlia pests go into action. Instead of waiting until your plants are insect-ridden, spray from the time they are 12 inches high. The most common insects and diseases and suggested remedies are:

Leaf Hoppers—Spray with nicotine sulphate or any other good commercial contact spray.
Aphids or Plant Lice—Same spray as for leafhoppers.
Thrips—Same spray as for leafhoppers.

Mildew—Dust with fine dusting sulphur.
Borers in Stems—Sift stems lengthwise when borers are first discovered above the base of the wilted portion of dahlia stalk. Inject a medicine dropperful of carbon bisulphide into the opening and plug up the opening. There is also a commercial borer remedy on the market, which comes in a tube so constructed that it is easy to inject.

Red Spider—Spray with rotenone sprays as directed by manufacturer; or dust with fine dusting sulphur; or wash plants with forebore spray of water.

Start Lawn in Fall

In regard to starting the lawn in the fall of the year, the U. S. Department of Agriculture Farm-ers' Bulletin 1677, "Planting and Care of Lawns," says: "In the northern half of the United States the lawn should be started in the fall when weeds are less troublesome. Spring sowings are likely to be crowded out by weeds. Southern and less hardy grasses usually succeed best when sown in the spring. Fall sowings should be made early enough to enable the grass to become well rooted before freezing weather, as it will then be in condition to start growth early in the spring and compete more successfully with the weeds."

Krumville
Krumville, August 11.—Krumville Reformed Church Sunday, August 14: 9:45, divine worship. "Songs in the Night," a service of praise and song. The choir, soloists and congregation will share in the service. Sunday school at 11 o'clock.

Louiseville - Krumville
People's group meeting will be held in the Louiseville Church at 8 p. m. Leader, Mrs. Kenneth Oakley; subject, "What Jesus Taught About Prayer."

On Sunday, August 21, the Lord's Supper will be served. At this time both infants and adults may be baptized. Members will be received into the church both by letter and confession of faith.

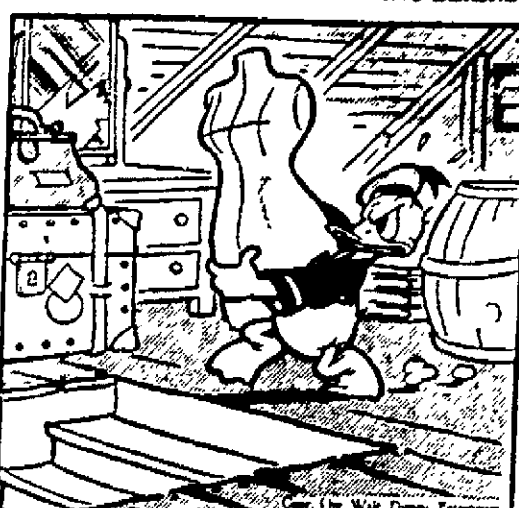

An August 25, the Krumville Church will hold a Sunday school picnic on the church grounds. The picnic will begin in the afternoon and will last through the evening. Supper will be served at 5:30 p. m. There will be a ball game at 6. Horseshoe pitching will be featured.

NEW YORK—Long Island Sound used to be an easy avenue of escape for thieves and fugitives, but it isn't any more. Too much sound guard. Too many fast, armed cutters on the water and too many fleet ships in the air.

Until a few years ago it was a commonplace for bank and jewel robbers to race out to hidden points on the sound and make their getaway in speedy motor-boats. The most classic example on record was that half-million armed-truck robbery in Brooklyn a few years ago. They never have solved that one. They followed the trail to a ragged point on the coast, where a boat had been cached. But there the trail ended.

Now the Coast Guard has any number of ships, some as long as 300 feet, and armed with heavy guns and anti-aircraft equipment. They have crews of over 100 men and depart regularly on five day cruises. Their range is from New London, Conn. to Cape May, N. J., and as far as 500 miles out to sea.

THAT must be an exciting task, that job. Because you never know what the next assignment will be. You may be cruising calmly off Nantucket one minute and be after run runners the next. Narcotic runners have to be taken care of, too. And the Coast Guard does a lot of rescue work.

SHORT Short: About a year ago she won a beauty contest and went to Hollywood to become a glamorous actress. They gave her a bit, and then another bit, and probably she could be playing bits yet if she cared for them. But this girl was smart. She realized she knew next to nothing about acting. So she came back to New York. . . . And got a part-time job, and signed up in a school of the drama.

The job she had was selling cigarettes on a rooftop garden at one of the hotels. She wanted to learn all the little tricks of acting before she went to Hollywood again.

But sometimes even an actress' plans get changed. And this girl's certainly are. For she fell in love with the drama teacher and married him. And today she is his assistant, giving instruction to students who want to learn to act.

Addis Ababa (AP)—While her colonial armies are busy trying to put down rebel Ethiopian tribesmen who refuse to accept Italian domination of this ancient African Kingdom, Italy's Emory and administrative buildings, restaurants, bars, cinemas and shops have sprung up among the native mud-huts and Greek and Armenian shops. Pavements have been built and roads resurfaced.

There are more than 8,500 race horses and another 7,500 trotting horses training or in competition in the United States.

Other Crabs
IT WAS not long before Willy Nilly saw the lady crab's eyes looking over the sand, but as he did not seem to make her nervous she went down for a swim. Her hind legs looked like small paddles which made swimming very easy for her.

Suddenly he noticed a crab waving one claw around a great deal, and another small crab was waving too.

"Are you waving to me?" asked Willy Nilly.

"I will say so if you wish," answered this little crab, "but it wouldn't be the exact truth. It's just a habit of mine and it has made people say that I look like a fiddler, or violinist, with his fiddle and bow. In fact, that is why I am called the fiddler crab."

"I'd never really thought of meeting a musician down here," smiled Willy Nilly.

"I can't say I'm a musician," the fiddler answered. "No one could dance or sing to my music because I merely go through the motions. I'll tell you something. I do. I'll show you something."

"I wish you would," said Willy Nilly eagerly.

"I'm going to roll up a small ball made of wet sand. Then I am going to carry it to a spot where I'm making myself a burrow. It's almost finished, and it's going to have a room in it, too."

The fiddler crab was glad that Willy Nilly admired his burrow for he was very proud of it.

"I back into my burrow," he explained. "It's just a habit with so many who go into doorways first! For a crab such as I am, my way is better. My big claw acts as a door to keep out unwelcome guests."

The latest ones to signify their intentions of closing for the festivities are several additional beauty shops who through the efforts of Mrs. George D. Logan will participate in the festive affair. The additional list of beauty shops includes Mrs. George D. Logan's Beauty Shoppe, Peggy's Beauty Shoppe, Blanche and Eva's Beauty Salon, DuBois Sisters Beauty Salon, Mrs. Minnie Warner's Beauty Shop, Ann Ruckert's Beauty Shoppe.

Plans have been made to gather on Wall street after the closing of the stores at 2 p. m. on next Thursday and from there the pilgrimage will make its way to the lake by way of Rosendale. Once at Williams Lake there will be plenty of entertainment for all including swimming, games and sports, dancing, a buffet supper and also boating on the lake.

The employees and clerks will have as their guests Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman, Chief of Police J. Allan Wood, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy and Sheriff Abram F. Molyneux.

For those who have not already secured their tickets for the outing Sam Bernstein, who with Ed Huben and Gus Modjeska are in charge of plans, announced today that tickets could be purchased from Sam Bernstein Company, Flanagan's, James L. Rowe, Ed Huben or Gus Modjeska. The committee in charge has attempted to circulate among the merchants tickets for the event but in case someone has been mislaid tickets will be on sale until the day of the event.

Business men, their clerks and employees and also members of their families are invited to attend. The affair will be under the auspices of the Kingston Business Men's Association.

Whooping Cough Still Prevalent

Whooping cough is still prevalent in Kingston, and during July 37 new cases of the disease were reported to the health board, it was announced today.

Dr. L. E. Sanford, health officer, since the outbreak of whooping cough has been holding a series of clinics at the city hall where children who have been exposed to the disease may be treated with serum.

These clinics twice a week are being well attended by children accompanied by the parents. In order to safeguard a child against whooping cough it is necessary to give several injections of the serum.

Girls will far outnumber boys in the New York State Fair spelling bee. There are 24 girls to only seven boys on the entry list. The youngsters range in age from 11 to 15. The entry from Delaware county, officials chuckled, probably got her practice working on her own name—Lemajia Von Helster, aged 13.

Clifford A. Wood, 71, of Philadelphia, a former resident of Kingston, was seized with a heart attack Thursday afternoon while tuning a piano at the home of Otto Trinka at High Woods and died a few minutes later before medical aid could be summoned. Dr. Lester A. Sankling of Saugerties was notified but Mr. Wood died before medical aid could be given. Mr. Wood and his wife were at the house where Mr. Wood was engaged at work when he suddenly collapsed and fell to the floor.

Coroner Norvin R. Lasher of Saugerties was called on and completion of his investigation rendered a verdict of death due to a heart attack. The body was given in charge of Mr. Lasher pending funeral arrangements. Mrs. Jane M. Mahon is a sister of Mr. Wood, and Irving Wood, the well known local musician, is a brother.

Hayfever Brings Cure Suggestion

Ragweed is now in full bloom as the members of Colonial Chapter of the Hayfever Association can testify, and with the blooming of the weed those who suffer from hayfever are having far from enjoyable days and nights. One of the victims who was called to the city hall on business today wondered if the city was taking any steps toward cutting down the ragweed that flourishes in many vacant lots and along the streets.

The questions asked by the hayfever victim led a newspaper man to seek out Dr. L. E. Sanford, city health officer, and ask him if the health board had taken any steps toward ordering the weed to be cut down.

Dr. Sanford said that as long as ragweed flourished in the fields outside the city limits it would hardly pay to try and rid the city of the weed for those suffering from the disease would easily pick it up when they went out for an auto drive outside the city.

The only solution of the problem he believed was to have a general cleanup campaign that would be county-wide. In that way it might be possible to alleviate the sufferings of those afflicted with hayfever.

It would do no harm and might do some good, the health officer said, if local owners of vacant lots where ragweed flourished would see that the weed was cut down. The weed was worthless and did not add any to the value of the property on which it was growing.

Four Men Held In Fur Racket

New York, Aug. 12 (AP)—Four men, two of them city policemen, were held for felony court today, charged with grand larceny in connection with an alleged racket in stolen furs, in which two Brooklyn men lost $10,000.

The patrolmen, Jacob Balkin, 36, and Edward C. Schondelmier, 34, both of Brooklyn, were alleged to have appeared just as the furs were to be delivered and taken possession of the goods as stolen, leaving the victim minus whatever money he had paid for the merchandise.

The two principals, police said, were Nathan Krapas, 46, and Sam Davis, 38. Davis was arrested yesterday in Asbury Park, N. J., and Krapas in Monticello, N. Y.

The police said Krapas and Davis approached an intended customer offering furs at greatly reduced prices and demanding money in advance. As the furs were being delivered, the police charged, Balkin and Schondelmier appeared and confiscated the truck.

Legion Clashes With La Guardia

Endicott, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP)—A clash between New York's Mayor Fiorello La Guardia and their state commander over communism still held the spotlight today as state legionnaires swung into the second day of their convention.

The mayor, in an address at a dinner in honor of Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., answered charges of State American Legion Commander Jeremiah F. Cross that he refused to remove an avowed communist from a municipal office with a curt:

"I think I need not say that after 15 years in public office the mayor takes orders from no one."

Cross, in a report delivered to the state convention earlier in the day, reiterated his criticism of La Guardia for permitting Samuel W. Gerson, 1936 communist candidate for Congress, to continue as a municipal official.

"My responsibility," said the mayor, "is to the people of New York state and I am accountable only to the governor in the event of a covert act on my part."

He took no orders from political organizations or groups, the Legion or its commander.

Withdraw Invitation
Scranton, Pa., Aug. 12 (AP)—Pennsylvania legionnaires have withdrawn an invitation to Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia of New York to attend their state convention because, an announcement said, they are "opposed to fraternizing with radicals."

The bid was given to La Guardia last night as he stopped in Scranton for dinner, but was recalled a few hours later.

An Ancient Tokyo Garden
The 200-year-old Rikugi-gen garden, formerly privately owned, was donated to the Tokyo municipality. A striking feature of the 23-acre beauty spot is its big pond, with unusual arrangements of rocks, shrubs and trees, centered by the Elysian Isle. The garden, laid out about 1700 around the villa of Yanagisawa Yosiyasu, feudal lord of Kawagoe, follows the elaborate pattern worked out by its owner. A gifted classical scholar, Yosiyasu set out to reproduce the many scenic places referred to in the ancient poems he had read. Arbors, tea houses, rare plants and trees, as well as gifts from neighboring barons, went into Rikugi-gen. It is said that Yosiyasu built in miniature some 88 garden scenes described in his favorite poems.

'Jimmy' Roosevelt Tells of Income

days, he acknowledged, "I got into places I never would have if I wasn't the son of the President. But, son or no son, I got tossed out of a lot, too."

He named several large corporations whose insurance business he had failed to get because he was underbid, including Paramount Pictures, Stone and Webster, and the Ford Motor Company.

"Certainly father gave me no direct aid," he continued. "I had never asked him to speak for me. And anybody who says or suggests that he would have aided me in any questionable way is, of course, a liar—a rather cowardly liar whom I'd like personally but briefly to meet." (A New York newspaper published a composite picture today of him and Johnson, author of the Saturday Evening Post article, in boxing clothes squaring off.)

Scoffs At Kennedy Report
Roosevelt also scoffed at a report that he had helped Joseph P. Kennedy, now Ambassador to Great Britain, politically in building up a big liquor importing business and in return had placed the insurance on the imports.

"Listen, mister," he told Davenport, "when I reach the stage where I can help Joe Kennedy set up in a business structure, I'll brag about it. . . . neither Roosevelt and Sargent nor either of us as individuals has directly or indirectly insured so much as a bottle of whiskey imported into the United States."

The appearance of the interview was preceded by a national radio interview with Davenport from Eastport, Me., last night, in which Roosevelt went over much of the material covered in the article.

"Not Doing Badly"
Johnston issued a statement in rebuttal which said in part:

"The statement of James Roosevelt is a plea in practically every respect except as to the size of his income. In that respect he is not doing badly."

"His figures indicate that his firm has obtained more than half a million dollars in commissions from great corporations which, because of their relations to the government, are especially subject to political pressure."

"His figures show that his net income would have been more than $60,000 last year except that he split it for the purpose, as he admits, of avoiding higher income-tax brackets."

"His firm's gross income is reported at $108,000 in 1936. It jumped to $128,000 in 1937, his first year as secretary to the president."

A man walked into a bank and asked for a loan of ten dollars. The cautious teller asked him what collateral he had, and the man produced ten ten thousand dollar bonds. The clerk said: "Teller—What's the idea of this, asking for a ten dollar loan with all this money?"

CIVILIZATION went out with the cane, declares Frank Jager, Washington craftsman who had made and repaired walking sticks for every president since Grover Cleveland. He finds that with passing of cane vogue, "country isn't civilized."

Jury to Decide Fate of Carroll

South Paris, Me., August 12 (AP)—In closing arguments today a jury was asked to decide whether or former Deputy Sheriff Francis M. Carroll murdered elderly Dr. James G. Littlefield to conceal "fatherly acts" toward his own daughter, Barbara, 18, or whether that murder was committed by Paul N. Dwyer, 19, Barbara's former sweetheart and Carroll's chief accuser.

Special Prosecutor Ralph M. L. Galls contended evidence showed Carroll strangled Dr. Littlefield, a physician of letters from the girl accusing her father of improper conduct.

Defense Counsel Clyde R. Chapman asserted evidence showed Dwyer killed both the physician and his wife.

Bodies of both were in an automobile in which Dwyer, asleep, was arrested at North Arlington, N. J., last autumn, a few days after the crime.

Dwyer at first took full responsibility, but later testified as the prosecution's star witness that he confessed only because he feared Carroll.

MODES of the MOMENT

your crowd. And make money, too!

As a starter, try this simple exercise. Stand before a mirror with lips and teeth slightly parted, pronounce vowels—a, e, i, o, u. Surprising how many words you can say without moving your lips! When lip action is unavoidable, focus attention of audience on the dummy.

But where can you get a dummy? You can easily make one as engaging as Charlie McCarthy. Archie, pictured above, a first-class workable dummy, cost about 75 cents. His head and neck are rubber balls; his body, a wooden box; his legs, stuffed stockings; his arms, muslin; his spinal column, a broomstick, a few bits of wire, rubber, and wood.

Our new 32-page booklet gives exact list of materials needed, full instructions, diagrams for making boy and girl dummies. Tricks of the ventriloquist fully explained. Clever dialogue for you to use.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robin Coome

HOLLYWOOD—I've just witnessed Frank Lloyd's biggest moment in nine weeks. I saw him shoot the final scene of "If I Were King."

The producer-director sat beside the camera. At the other side stood Ronald Colman, a beardless Francois Villon in a comfortable modern suit. Before the camera stood Frances Dee, dark hair flowing, white robes flowing—a medieval French princess ready for a close-up.

"I know," said Frances, "what would make them fight?"

"What?" said Colman's off-stage voice.

"They would fight if they were hungry," those at generals and their men, forever stuffing themselves with food and drink. Pigs, all of them!"

THAT was all "If I Were King" was finished, slightly under schedule. There were goodbyes and thank-you's all around. Colman vanished. So did Frances Dee—the latter, I learned, having just earned $550 for those two speeches. Colman earned considerably more for his one word. But you ought to see them earn it on a full day.

"I don't know when I've been so glad to see a picture finished," Lloyd volunteered en route to the commissary. "And I don't know when I've been so tired."

There were Lloyd, his young associate producer Lou Smith; Lance Heath, who gets depressed when he's assigned to other units than Lloyd's; and myself. All of us knew Lloyd, blue-eyed, black-browed Scotsman, had gone ahead with the picture when he should have been in bed. Had a bad leg injury several weeks back. So all of us felt sorry for him—until he began on his vacation plans. Little Norwegian boat, 28 days at sea, reading, sleeping, eating, resting. Sympathy? We were green-eyed.

But he'll have to stay here on the picture until September. I gave a little so-sorry talk.

"Not at all," Frank insisted. "The hard part's finished. No more worrying about people getting hurt in sword play and mob scenes. No more tension, all of us straining to get each scene right. All we have left now is to cut it, put it together, synchronize the music—and then take it somewhere for the sneak preview. That's the night I'm going to sweat. That's the night I'm going to tear my fingernails out, while the audience makes up its mind!"

"GOT a next one picked out?" I asked.

"Lou's been handing me a lot of scripts to read, but I don't trust myself when I'm tired. Temptation to pick an easy one is too great. And the easy ones don't often make the best ones."

To Give Program At Forsyth Park

Forsyth Park will be the scene of a community night this evening, the program including games, local talent entertainment and movies.

A softball game will start early in the evening and the bill of entertainment will include Bill Stall in a skit, Arthur Crist, piano solo, Gordon Constable, violin, Renee and Clare Silverman in a duet of songs, J. Leininger and Catherine Rafterly, tap dances.

Fred L. Van Deusen will give his act in magic and Mrs. Poe will accompany the various acts.

Only seven states, California, Colorado, Delaware, Indiana, Maryland, New York and Pennsylvania, fix the beginning salary of teachers with four years of professional training at $1,000 a year or more.

Maverick Gives Pleasing Comedy

An exciting, funny and thoroughly entertaining play is "Ode to Liberty," a comedy adapted from the French by Sidney Howard, which is being played this week at the Maverick Theatre and had its opening Thursday evening.

Anna Karen, who has given such splendid characterizations in previous Maverick plays this season, plays the leading role of Madeleine, and Horton Foote plays the part of Hansel. Arthur Spencer, Houseley Stevens and Perry Brusklin also have leading roles.

The play is about a sophisticated Parisian woman, married to a prominent banker, who finds herself involved in a situation which, at first, looks bad for her and everyone else concerned.

A handsome young radical chooses Madeleine's apartment to hide from the police, who have been chasing him for days. Madeleine has to keep her unwelcome guest in hiding or lose her life, then later, to save herself from being involved in a political scandal.

Supporting roles are taken by Lewis Barard, Frances Gurgone, James Sheridan and Sam Morries.

Largest bell of the carillon which will ring from the 400-foot Tower of the Sun at the 1939 World's Fair of the West, is the Bourdon, which will weigh six tons.

The largest pyramid contains 2,300,000 blocks of limestone each weighing one and a half tons.
